

A large number of the images in the Inverell Library Catalogue are from the Devine Collection, which comprises around 9000 negatives from the former Devine Studios in Inverell. The title of these images will include a number like: DC1234, and may include a year or packet number as well. The images are being progressively added to the library catalogue.

Most of the images are unidentified, and the Inverell District Family History Group has been working to identify people, places, and events depicted. Some images have a name recorded on the packet or the negative, but these names may not be of the person depicted - they could be the name of the person who ordered the prints. Edges of the negative have not been cropped from images to preserve this information.

Identifications of images can be provided to the Inverell Library or the Inverell District Family History Group. In order to ensure images are identified accurately, please include the basis for the identification i.e.- the person is a family member, school friend, former co-worker etc. This extra information will not be published. If the image does not include a DC number in the title, please provide the title details or a link to the image with the identification.

To search for an image located in this index, enter the DC number in the catalogue search box, with no spaces: e.g. DC9 or DC2230. Please be aware that the image may not have been loaded yet. If you wish to view an image that has not yet been loaded, please contact the Library or the Inverell District Family History Group directly. Contact details are on the Library home page.
